On February 10th, a dozen Fascists gathered in Manchester to partake in a day of activism.

Headed by the leader of the Youth Movement, Jack Williams, the group distributed flyers, flew the flash and circle flag, and discussed new and revolutionary ideas for the movement.

This meeting was the first of many for the Youth Movement, whose form and function has changed since the appointment of Williams as its head, and which has grown exponentially in the last six months. For the first time in many decades, Britain saw a convergence of young ideologues of the Third Position; young men driven by principle, who – with intelligence and innovation – seek to provide an alternative to the failed systems of capitalism and socialism. It should be of great reassurance to any engaged in this fight that there now exists a solid body of youths who have sworn themselves to the great battle against materialism; who embody the very reversal of what Nietzsche called the “death of God”, which was interpreted by Heidegger to mean the severance of the link between the material world and the abstract world (deemed the inferior and superior worlds respectively by Pythagoras).

take up the flag of Fascism; the youth, at last, usher in the inevitable era of supreme thought and spirit, ever-contra the dogma of the material ideologies which have rotted the British people at their very core.

An interesting analogy for our times!

This is a comparison between our situation in the UK today and the way it was in 1940 – and more importantly, the way IT WOULD HAVE BEEN if we'd had the same 'globalist liberal' political class THEN as we have NOW.

It is 1940. The Nazis have conquered France and our government have sent the British Expeditionary Force to France to try to stem the Nazi advance. Meanwhile, in Britain, there are 3.5 million Nazis already living in the country. These 'Nazis' believe that Hitler is the 'Perfect Man' and that 'Mein Kampf' is the 'Perfect Book'. 65% of these do not work – they are fed, clothed and housed by the taxpayers and sit at home most of the time eating, drinking, defecating and above all breeding; these 'Nazis' have up to four wives and at least 20 children each and they are fully supported by the government and indeed protected by them. When they are not at home living parasitically at the expense of the taxpayer, they organise mass demonstrations and rallies on the streets and in parks, calling for the overthrow of British civilisation and its replacement by a Nazi regime. The government are quite happy to encourage this and give them massive police protection. Those of the native British population who protest at any of this or who criticise the Nazis in any way are hounded and prosecuted for bigotry and racism by the government. The Nazis have infiltrated British society to such an extent that the Mayor of London is himself a Nazi. Many of the Nazis who DO work are occupied running shops which front for drug dealing or they have taxi services – these are important for the thousands of Nazis who have organised 'paedophile gangs' to systematically drug and rape underage British girls. The police do nothing about this – under government instruction – and in the major Nazi-held areas of the country, the 'Gauleiters' tell the police who they will allow to patrol their areas. Police recruitment excludes native, white British men and allows only ethnic minorities to be recruited – like the Nazis. Other Nazis hold positions in local government, especially education and in schools and colleges. British children as young as five are indoctrinated with Nazi propaganda and brainwashed into accepting the eventual Nazi takeover of the country – all this with full backing by the globalist liberal government. The Nazis also carry out periodic acts of rape, murder and terrorism which often go unreported by the globalist liberal-controlled media. The government, meanwhile, send £1 billion to the Nazi government abroad, much of which they spend on weapons to use against the 'BEF' and to kill British services personnel, and encourage tens of thousands of Nazis to enter the country every year. The government calls this 'Cultural Enrichment'. Many 'Nazis' also dislike animals, especially dogs, and vociferously protest the native British population walking their dogs in parks or on the street. The government are happy to support this, and indeed the Prime Minister and 330 MPs vote to confirm a Bill that 'animals are not sentient' and feel no pain – this appeases the 'Nazis' and also condones the use of animals in horrific experiments and the 'sport' of 'fox hunting' where foxes are torn to pieces by packs of killer dogs, and where fox cubs are thrown to the dogs to be ripped to pieces while still alive.

HAD this support of the 'Nazis' actually happened in 1940, the entire government would have been guilty of TREASON. Such is NOT the case TODAY!

TODAY the 'Nazis' are the I.P followers of Islam. It should also be pointed out – for those who don't know! – that Adolf Hitler NEVER considered himself to be the 'Perfect Man' or that his book – 'Mein Kampf' – was the 'Perfect Book'. Nor did Hitler condone paedophilia or cruelty to animals; in fact he was a vegetarian who banned the use of gin traps in Germany and deplored Goering's love of hunting. Ironically, he also admired the British culture and way of life and for a politician he was astoundingly NOT corrupt; his income was from his salary as Chancellor and from sales of his book. His two main 'vices' were that he loved films (his favourite being King Kong) and had four cream buns with his tea every afternoon. A vast difference from most of our political class today! His only fault was the persecution of the Jews, as a result of which many great scientists, musicians and philosophers were lost to the world. Had his persecution been of Islamics, NOTHING would have been lost except six million potential parasites.

Nationalism On The Rise World-Wide

By Seth Tyrssen

Party Leader Gary Raikes has pointed out a couple of things in past articles, that really make one stop and think.

First, that there are a million small groups in the UK (and everywhere else, for that matter) that can never seem to get along. And second, that working as “independents” and getting elected locally may well be more important than “marches.”

Probably quite true, in and of itself, but I note with interest the rise of nationalist marches all over Europe, and the media outrage (and coverage) that resulted from a “Unite the Right” march, over here in America.

My personal conclusion: both tactics can be useful. Poland made major headlines with its massive rallies. On the “League of the South” web site (an American group dedicated to the secession of states from the Tyrant Regime in Washington,) there were a couple of videos from Sweden, showing the National Resistance Movement getting pushed around by the local cops, in spite of being a completely legal and peaceful demonstration. I was of the opinion that they should have beat the stuffings out of that particular batch of police, but hey, that’s just me.

Russia

Right: Latvia, where the swastika symbol has been made legal once again.

Why would I say such a naughty thing? Because the police are not something sacred, they are the fist of the oppressor. Many are decent enough chaps, and many are bullies. Some are downright psycho and murderous. I had a boyhood friend who joined the Detroit police department; he left after about a year, however, saying he was more afraid of the police than anything else out there on the streets. Our friends in Sweden are just going to have to realize that you have the rights you're willing to FIGHT for. Sir Oswald was well aware of this, which is why the Blackshirts were created in the first place.

So, what's to be done about the myriad of groups that don't agree with each other? Simple: agree to disagree. Work together wherever possible, and where not possible, leave each other alone. As I stated in a previous article, proposing a Fascist Internationale.

This tactic was amazingly in evidence during the demonstration in Charlottesville, Virginia. Begun by centrist conservatives, it soon ballooned into a rally of every group and position imaginable, from "neo-cons" to National Socialist. To the best of my knowledge, such a thing has never happened here, because we suffer from the same sort of factionalism that afflicts us everywhere.

So, just why is nationalism again on the rise, in a big way? That answer, too, is simple and obvious.

I'm looking at a little sign that hangs over my desk. It reads simply, "No More Guff." It's a personal motto. I'm out of patience, and won't take any more guff from anybody, on any level. Not even from the Universe itself.

It seems I'm not alone.

The last remnants of our people all over the world have had enough guff. The lame, ineffective liberal democracies have stumbled all over themselves in an attempt to excuse the outrages of illegal immigrant masses. That seems to be the first and foremost issue, everywhere.

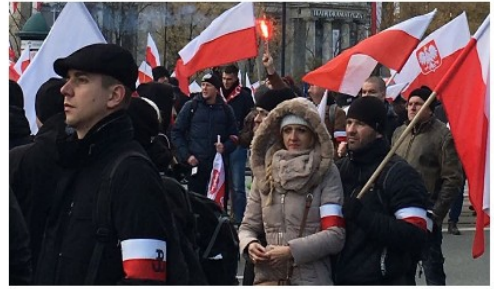

"Liberal democracy" has proven itself to be such an utter failure, that people are getting mighty damn sick of it. "Suppose democracy isn't the best form of government?" said Sir Oswald, in the BBC film, "Mosley." A radical statement, to be sure. Is it possible to retain individual rights, individual representation, and a world eco-consciousness, in a Fascist system?

YES.

But make no mistake: we must first eliminate the old order, the rule of big corporations that rape the planet for the sake of a fatter profit margin, and governments that think it's all right to allow hordes of rapefugees to pour across their borders. This requires total revolution. It requires a return of mass cultural awareness.

And that awareness, it seems, is on the rise.

In Conclusion ...

This concludes “The Blackshirt Articles,” at least for the moment. There may well be one or more additional volumes, later on. I’m a bit of an opinionated motormouth, and as long as Party Leader Raikes will put up with my admittedly somewhat eccentric views (on occasion!) I’ll continue to turn out articles for the excellent publication of the New British Union.

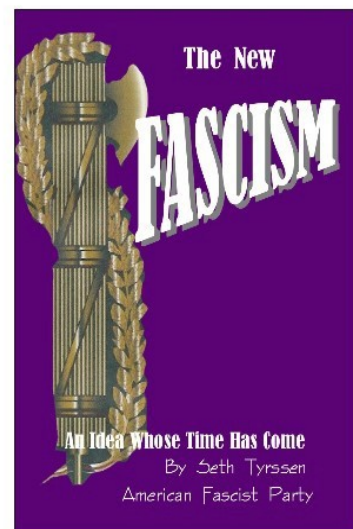

What do I suggest, for the long term, and for Comrades both in the UK and elsewhere? Make a conscious effort to communicate with each other. You won’t all like each other, and you won’t all agree on everything. Accept that as a “given,” right from the start, and we may yet see some real progress.

I’d like very much to see the creation of a real Fascist Internationale. As I said in that last article, not every nationalist will consider himself a Fascist; but every Fascist will certainly consider himself or herself to be a nationalist. And since no one symbol is suitable for everyone at this time, allow me to suggest the use of the one shown above. It is used in electrical diagrams, and is the symbol for Resistance.

I trust I need not explain, any further.

Thank you, dear reader, for your kind attention and consideration.

HAVE YOUR SAY

Message:

I am an American citizen, but for the past seven months of my life, in my in-depth studying of World War II, I have come to what I believe in my heart as the truth, the truth being that we have been lied to about a great many things regarding Adolf Hitler and his National Socialism, and our dear English brother Sir Oswald Mosley with his British Union of Fascists. I fear for not only my own nation and countrymen under the control of this corrupt system, but for all our European brothers and sisters, from which we all hail from in time. I wish to support in any way I can! And if I lived there I'd proudly march alongside you all!

Message:

Hi. I'm interested in joining the New British Union and possibly becoming more involved. The current political establishment is farcical and none seem to reflect my views more so than yourselves. I like what I see so far. Is it possible to get more information on your aims and how you strive to achieve them?

Yours,

Message:

As a white British individual, I believe that it is my duty to my country, to my people, to support what is best for a nation which, as of recently, has been raped by multiculturalism and immigration of Muslims into Britain. When I visit London to see my grandparents, I can't believe how few individuals are white, let alone White British. It's a shame to see how far we have come. We have defended our lands from invasion time and time again, trying to protect it from foreign invaders, who in the case of Nazi Germany, would have still treated us with respect and care if they had won.

But now we are slowly being destroyed from the inside, a rotten cancer of liberalisation and multinationalism which is tearing this country apart. The Muslims don't treat us with respect; to them, we are just 'infidels'. And so-called 'refugees' just want to benefit off of our corrupt system to gain pity and shelter, draining money and resources away from the true people that the money should be spent on – the white British people, seemingly forgotten about and pushed aside whilst we slowly are replaced.

I wish to join a party that knows what's best for its people, which knows what's best for its development and preservation of the nation that once ruled the waves, to restore Britain to being great once more. Hail Britannia!

Wow, what can I say, Comrades? The kind words are deeply appreciated, and a great many thanks for running several of my articles in a single issue! For those who don't know, I've been drowning Gary in articles, over the past couple of months! I've promised to back off a bit, or at least turn out shorter articles. I've a few more observations to offer, concerning the Imperial Fascist League, the PAP of Singapore, Peronism in Argentina, and the whole 'right vs. left' question. I hope these will be of interest to our Fascist Comrades everywhere. Again, thank you so much, Gary, for the kindness you've shown – and the obvious intelligence with which you lead the NBU.

Oswald Mosley in Scotland

When Mosley launched his 'New Party,' the precursor of the British Union of Fascists, it was active in Scotland virtually from the outset. A series of public meetings were held in Glasgow, and even in 1931 the red rabble showed the same commitment to 'free speech' as their present-day counterparts. Rather than try to engage Mosley in rational debate, they set out to smash up his meetings. What they did not reckon on was Mosley's charisma and fearless courage, as this report from the Daily Record illustrates.

'For five minutes yesterday I thought that Shettleston would be Sir Oswald Mosley's burial place. Shettleston Town Hall, Glasgow, was packed. The voice of the people was loud and angry. "Bring us Mosley" they chanted, and when the leader of the New Party arrived they swarmed around him, breathing into his face the promise, "We'll hang Mosley by the neck in the Gallowgate."

'The most articulate of the acrimonious jumped up on Mosley's platform and threw out the challenge... "There's fifty polis (police) hidden here... What chance do we have against them?" "Fifty polis," repeated a woman in the front row as her friend cried "Traitor" at Sir Oswald. Then someone settled the issue. "Send away your polis. Come outside an' see what'll happen." Even to my innocent ears this did not seem the most pleasing invitation.

'But Britain's all-round champion smiled. "I never asked for police protection," he declared. "I never asked for police protection in my life."

'Quite definitely there were fifty 'polis' who nobody wanted, so Mosley went outside and sat on a chair while the proletariat surged towards him. "Hey, Oswald" they cried...

"Is it true you pay super-tax? Hey Oswald ye dirty dog!"

'Mosley dealt with all the questions his hostile audience threw at him, and slowly the mood of the crowd turned. "Aye, that's right, speak up, Oswald. You're gemme (game) anyway, we'll say that for you." That finished any prospect of bloodshed. A hundred voices chanted, "Hey, Oswald," and then they swept him forward to his car.'

Sir Oswald left Shettleston smiling. Behind him, men who had sworn deep oaths to let Mosley see what Glasgow thought of him stood speechless and amazed. What had happened? Why did they let him go?

Support for Mosley came from all sections of Scottish society. In the same month as the Shettleston Town Hall meeting, he was nominated for the rectorship of Glasgow University. Although Mosley failed to win the contest, his candidature was supported by the well-known writer George Bernard Shaw. Indeed, Shaw's view of the contest shows that even in the 1930s, Glasgow University was inhabited by the same kind of creatures which prowl its corridors in the present day. He wrote, "They only show that our seats of learning and culture are the only places where representatives of learning and culture are invariably at the bottom of the poll, and the vulgarist available party careerist at the top."

The red scum were not prepared to allow Mosley's popularity to continue to spread in the face of their campaign of lies and hatred. A new way of stopping Mosley in Scotland was needed, and this they hoped could be achieved by recruiting among the Jewish-dominated razor gangs of Glasgow's Gorbals for allies in a new anti-Mosley alliance.

After a giant open-air rally on Glasgow Green (the Times newspaper estimated the crowd at 40,000), Mosley and his leading officers were attacked by a 500-strong gang of razor-wielding Communists, who went on to fight pitched battles with the police.

It was this event more than any other which was to precipitate the major change in Mosley's political life.

On his return to London the New Party executive was hurriedly summoned. Mosley was brief: "We need no longer hesitate to create our trained and disciplined force. From today we are Fascist."

the Fascist WORLD VIEW: Nation and Planet

-- By Seth Tyrssen

We've discussed, in previous articles, the rather obvious importance of nationalism, and the need for a modern Internationale, a "Nationalist Congress" if you will. We're painfully aware of the immediate issues that face us, both at home and abroad. This applies across-the-board, although the issues may differ in the UK, US, Eastern Europe. etc. Not all nationalists will describe themselves as Fascists, but all Fascists will certainly be nationalists.

What about the larger, overall world view? As I've harped on time and time again, without a liveable ecosystem, all political arguments become a moot point, since there will be no more life anyway.

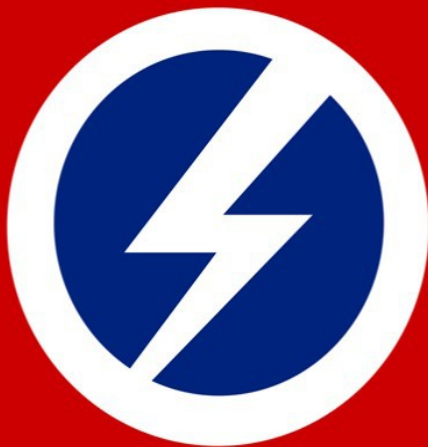

I don't recall just where I got the graphic at right, but it is a paraphrasing of the US "Pledge of Allegiance." It makes perfect sense. Here are some rather scary facts -- I repeat, ladies and gentlemen, FACTS: the average health of the individual is on a downswing, and cancer is on the rise. The quality of our air, water, and food has changed -- and not for the better. We now have about 30% LESS oxygen in our atmosphere than we had, a mere 200 years ago. Chemical fertilizers, pesticides, and heavy metals from industry (as well as chemical additives) are in our DRINKING water.

NEW BRITISH UNION AGM DERBYSHIRE MARCH 17TH

The land itself is becoming anemic; chemical fertilizers have created nutritional deficiencies. And it used to be, 90% of our food was unprocessed, and went from the farmer to the table. Today the reverse is true, with about 90% of the food in your supermarket being “dead,” stripped of its nutritional value. Some form of imitation chemical glop replaces natural foods in many cases, because that’s what people can afford, sadly enough. And I won’t even begin to go into the horrors that are commonplace, in the animal “food industry.” But I challenge you, yes YOU, to take ten minutes and look up such things on your computer.

Simple people use simple models.
But while simple people use simple models it is up to us to explain the much more complicated world. And that most complicated world consists not of steady states, but of supply, demand, rents, and shocks. Fascism is not a model, it is a tool with which we seek the optimum state of liberty, law, peace. — Curt Doolittle

<http://ex-army.blogspot.com>

The Fascist world-view is one of unity with our Comrades everywhere, and unity with our planet.

We have seen the utter failure of Communism, Capitalism, Democracy, and Socialism. We have seen that the international banking system rides out any historical trends, in any of these systems, and continues to rule from behind-the-scenes.

We have seen the big corporations run roughshod over our planet, all for the sake of a fatter profit margin.

It’s time to put a stop to it. It’s time to say, “no more guff.” Only Fascism offers any real hope of saving our nations, and our world.

And it all needs to be done, damn soon.

LEADER'S MESSAGE

Over the last six years the NBU has been working to establish a movement of 'people not politicians'. In doing so we have avoided the ballot box by only standing members as independent candidates and concentrating solely on local issue politics. The next step is to build this movement into the real 'people's army' to represent all those not represented by the political elite's puppets.

Like any army we must be disciplined, we must accept order and above all we must understand the meaning of loyalty and respect. The love of Queen and country is paramount as is supporting our armed forces defending tradition and our culture.

The NBU army must differ from our opponents, who are against all these things, the very things that make us British. The real thugs will be exposed as being on the left, the mask-wearing rioter is a product of liberalism not fascism.

It is time for patriots from all groups to come under the 'Flash and Circle' of British Fascism. The ballot box is closed; unorganised marches and rowdy demonstrations gain absolutely nothing. We have been abandoned by politicians, and it has become clear that we will have to defend our folk and kin, our way of life, the British way of life, for ourselves.

This will require training, education and above all discipline. To this end we have no need of any of the old guard. Their time has been and gone; they have let you down time after time and will continue to do so. Those that cannot or will not understand the NBU are of no use to this young movement. If they cannot embrace New Fascism they should be left in the past playing their petty party political games.

Blackshirt cells will develop into Blackshirt units in every village, town and city in the UK. We will respect Law and Order, we will be organised and structured, we will have discipline and we will be ready to defend our people. A new way for a new century, New British Union.

It's time to take your place in the ranks of the 21st-century Blackshirts, it is time to raise an army.
